

Paramount-Burton Holmes Travel Picture
Release No. T-1292
Date of Release, Dec. 12, 1920
Subject -- "Malayan Motor Roads"

DEC 11 1920

The Paramount-Burton Holmes release for Dec. 12th, "Malayan Motor Roads," takes you to the Malay Peninsular, a peaceful land where the noisy motor breaks the silence as infrequently as once a day, but where you can tour through the loveliest of surroundings and see the native Malayan as you tour over sleepy hill and lazy dale in your "benzine buggy"; the roads are fine and you get a wonderful opportunity to study Malay methods of life in the quaintest and most amusing forms. Imagine a bull attached to a cart with an extensive canopy spread over him to keep him cool; imagine going to a moving picture show in the Malay Peninsular or finding a specie of traffic cop here and there along the dusky highway, or dusky maidens wearing their family jewels in queer and unexpected places, arrayed in clothing which requires no buttons, hooks nor eyes. You will see a number of sights and many unusual animals, which makes this picture an inexpensive substitute for the joy of your younger days - a Barnum menagerie.
